Dear Hiring Manager,

I am contacting you to express my intrigue in the software development position that was advertised on Indeed in March. This summer, I will be a fresh graduate with an Ontario College Advanced Diploma in Computer Programming and Analysis. During my time as a student at George Brown College, I have learned and utilized countless strategies to developing applications of a wide variety, from CLI mini games to full stack web applications. It is with this range of knowledge that I believe I would be an undeniable asset to the position you seek to fill.

While working as an SAP Operations and Price Checking Clerk at Morello's Independent Grocer, I have been able to put forth a large amount of time and effort to making my department thrive in an ever-changing environment. Due to my knowledge in the technical field, I have been able to piece together helpful guides for new hires, as well as aid my colleagues in troubleshooting countless pricing and electronic tag issues as they arise. I truly believe that I contribute an indisputable amount of growth within my department and would be capable of applying that to the position you are offering as well.

Additionally, I am an incredibly swift learner. Starting my programming career in my first semester with zero background knowledge, I have quickly soared through the ranks of my peers, currently sitting at a GPA of 3.98. Every semester I am met with challenges that I strive to overcome and finish out each finals week by making the Dean's Honour List for that term. I continuously stand out to my professors and fellow students, even gaining a recommendation to pursue a position tutoring English at the college.

It is with all of this that I believe I would be the perfect fit for the position you advertised in March of this year. Not only have I proven to be an asset to my workplace at my local YIG branch of Loblaws, but I have actively achieved goals to meet the ever-changing standards of learning software development. I am dedicated to being a lifelong learner, forever adapting to embrace the shift in technology, from primitive to artificially advanced.

I wish to extend my most sincere gratitude that you have given time to read through my application. If you are interested in utilizing my skills in this field, I urge you to contact me through my email at amandagurns@hotmail.ca, or my mobile phone number at (705) 868-8939.

Best wishes,
Amanda Gurney
